YOU TELL US

What is your preferred method/product for tear stains, wrinkles and tail pockets?

We use a product called Duoxo Clorhexadine pads for tears nasal folds and tail pockets - Jenny

For tear stains & wrinkles I use multi-purpose contact solution on a cotton round. There is boric acid in the contact solution & I was told that helps. I've been using it for 6 years now & must say it works well! - Jenny

For the tear stains we don't have much luck for whatever reason, but for tail pockets we have a method that works well for us. We clean out dead fur, oils, etc. with witch hazel on cotton rounds or cotton squares. We find it cuts the yuk better than wet wipes. Then we use a curved tip syringe to squirt in a leave on lotion called ResiKetoChlor.

BULLDOG RESCUE

My apologies for not getting a rescue update out in the last edition of the Wrinkle Time newsletter. Time to give an update as to the dogs we currently have in our care and those recently rehomed.

Ramsey has been adopted and is doing well in his new home. Ramsey came to us not long after he had been rehomed. His original owners thought that they had found a suitable home for him, but the family cat didn't tolerate having a new "brother" and began marking in the house. His former owners were unable to take him back, so our rescue took on the task of finding Ramsey his forever home. Although Ramsey has some allergy issues and needs daily treatment for dry eye, his new "mom", Emily is happy to share her home with him.

Daisy is in a "foster to adopt" situation as she came to us from an Iowa shelter and had been picked up as an unclaimed stray. She had a surgical scar in her abdomen, but it was obvious that she had puppies in the past, so we could not adopt her out until we knew for sure that she had been spayed or came into heat so that we could get her spayed. There was no way to determine if the scar was just not from a prior c-section without doing exploratory surgery, so she had to be in foster care for awhile. She has since come into season, so she will soon have her spay surgery so that she can finally be adopted.

Back in rescue is Coco-Bella. She had been adopted a few years ago by a very nice older couple. Unfortunately, due to circumstances beyond their control, they realized that they could no longer take proper care of Coco, so she was returned to our rescue. Coco-Bella had some bad experiences in her first home and as a result has some anxiety issues in regards to cats. The ideal home for her would be with a family with no young children and no cats. She needs experienced Bulldog owners that are not afraid of a dog who tries to get its own way. She would be fine with a calm, male dog to share her home.

New to rescue is "Brutus". Brutus has been bounced around to four different families in the past few years. His last home was a short stay of only a couple of weeks. The person who surrendered Brutus to our rescue would have loved to have kept him, but would have been in violation of her dog permit if she kept him. She found him on Craigslist, and was advertised as a "free dog". When she contacted the previous owners it was only to warn them that it was not a good idea to give the dog away that way. Brutus had only been in that home for two months. The man told her that the maintenance of a Bulldog was too much work. He said he would only talk to her if she agreed to take the dog off his hands. So she picked him up and brought him to her house rather than let Brutus fall into the wrong hands.

Brutus is four and a half years old and has no serious health concerns aside from a very tight tail and possibly some food allergies. His tail will probably need to be removed for health reasons. He is a friendly boy who gets along well with other dogs and also is OK with cats. The person who had him last said that he was also very good with her four year old daughter. He is touchy about having his nails trimmed, but that should be able to be managed with proper training. Once he's been in foster care for a little longer we will have a better idea of the best home for him.

We would like to take this time to thank all of you who have supported Bulldog rescue this past year. Some of you have donated to our fundraisers, either by donating items or bidding on them or helping with the silent auctions themselves. Thank you. A big "thank you" to those who have fostered dogs. Also thanks to those of you who have volunteered to conduct home visits, either for our MN group or other groups. And thanks also to those who have donated items for rescue dogs such as crates and toys, beds and miscellaneous things that every dog needs. I'd also like to thank Karen's friend, Lisa Lambert for offering to do the Scentsy Fundraiser this summer. She donated her profit from the sales to our fundraiser. Every effort is appreciated. We couldn't do it without you.

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year from BCARN – MN!
