Good news to report. Rocki has been adopted. We are still looking for a home for Margaret. Margaret is very sweet with people once she gets to know them, but does not like to be approached too quickly by strangers. Margaret has to go to a home where there are no other pets and no small children.

Here is Margaret hanging out in her foster home.

Also in rescue is Archie. Archie needs surgery on his leg before he can be adopted out, but once his leg is healed, his adoption can be completed. Archie is currently in a “foster to adopt” home because of the need for long-term therapy after knee surgery.

We have two other dogs looking for homes. Riley is a six year old female who came from a shelter in South Dakota. She was surrendered by an elderly couple who stated that they could no longer afford to care for her. Riley loves people and has been around children and is good with them.

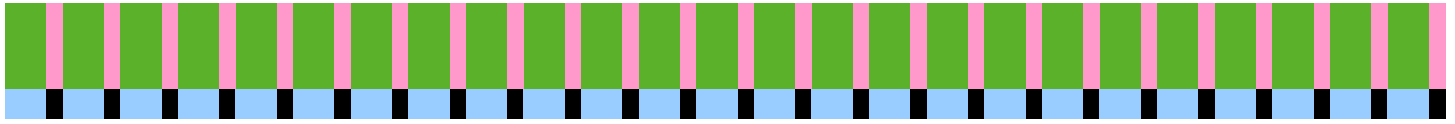

When Riley came to our rescue, she was not in good health. She was missing patches of fur due to a skin infection. She also had an eye infection due to a case of untreated "Dry Eye". Her ears also need medication for infections. Now that she has received proper medical treatment, her fur has grown back. Her ear infection is cleared up and her eyes have vastly improved. The medical term for Riley's eye condition is Keratoconjunctivitis Sicca. This cannot be cured, only treated. She will need daily treatment for this condition for the rest of her life. Fortunately, Riley has responded well to the medication and the treatment is simple -- just a small amount of cyclosporine ointment needs to be applied daily to both eyes. The cyclosporine stimulates tear production. Riley also receives one pill a day for a low thyroid. This medication is inexpensive and she takes it with no difficulties.

Riley gets along with other dogs, but does tend to be a little bossy. This is often the case with female dogs that have been mothers. Her former owners stated that Riley had produced a couple of litters before they bought her. Because of this, Riley will not be placed with other female dogs. She should be OK with a calm, male dog. At her current foster home she gets along with the two male dogs in the home, but has made it clear that she wants to be the one charge.

Our other rescue in need of a home is Ricky Bobby. He came from northern Minnesota and was surrendered when his former owners were unable to bring him with him to their new home in a retirement community. The home they thought they had found for him did not work out, so they called our rescue to find him a home as they had run out of time to place him before they had to move.

Ricky is also six years old. Ricky seems to be a pretty healthy guy aside from an ear infection. Ricky gets along OK with other dogs as long as they don't bother him. He also has been getting along just fine with the cats at his foster home. Since Ricky doesn't like a lot of commotion, a home without small children would probably be best for him.

We have another dog waiting to come into rescue once a foster home can be found for her. Stella also does not get along with other dogs, so she needs to go to a foster home either without any other dogs or a situation where she can be kept separate from other dogs.

Ricky Bobby

For those of you who have puppies or young dogs, be sure to socialize them when young and with other dogs that you know are friendly and well socialized themselves. If you notice that your dog is beginning to show signs of anxiety or not getting along with other dogs, don't wait until the situation escalates into full out fighting. Once it gets to the point where one dog bites the other, it is much harder to get the dogs to get along after that. Try to get professional advice as soon as possible. There are many dog trainers and animal behaviorists that a person can contact for advice. Don't wait until it is too late. Many dogs come into rescue because of behavioral problems that might have been able to have been resolved had their owners sought help sooner.
